The HydroTap All-in-One Arc keeps Alison Potter's modern family home plastic bottle free

Location: Derbyshire

Client: Alison Potter

Sector: Residential

Product: HydroTap All-in-One Arc in brushed chrome

The brief

- An all-in-one tap that would fit seamlessly into her kitchen while catering for busy family life.
- To put an end to buying large quantities of unsustainable bottled water.

The solution

Designing her home from scratch, Alison worked with an interior designer to achieve a bright and stylish family home - complete only with the addition of a HydroTap All-in-One Arc in brushed chrome. Having all of their water needs available from one place, Alison was delighted to find the entire family were drinking more water and she could stop buying plastic bottled alternatives.

The results

"The All-in-One Arc has been a worthwhile investment for the kitchen. Not only does it look great and means we don't have multiple appliances, but the whole family is drinking more water. The children love the sparkling water especially. In fact one of the first phrases my two year old learnt to say was 'sparkling water'!"
